DETAILED ACTION

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: The continuation data in the specification are incomplete.

If applicant desires priority under 35 U.S.C. § 120 based upon a parent application, specific reference to the parent application must be made in the instant application. It is noted that this appears as the first sentence of the specification following the title. Status of the parent application (whether patented or abandoned) should also be included. If a parent application has become a patent, the expression "Patent No." should follow the filing date of the parent application. If a parent application has become abandoned, the expression "abandoned" should follow the filing date of the parent application. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

3. Claims 185-188 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Yguerabide et al. (6,214,560).

Yguerabide et al. discloses a method of light illumination and detection named "DLASLPD" (direct light angled for scattered light only from particle detected) disclose an analyte assay using gold particulate label for specific detection of one or more analytes in a sample. One or more analytes in a sample can be detected and measured by detection and/or measurement of one or more of the specific light scattering properties of metal-like particles. (Summary of the Invention). For example, a certain nucleic acid analyte is composed of about 100 nucleic acid bases and is present in a sample. The sample is prepared so that this nucleic acid is in a single stranded form. Then two or more unique single-stranded "probe" nucleic acid sequences are added to the sample where these different probes bind to different regions of the target strand. Each of these probes has attached to one or more particles (col. 74). Further, the particles can form different types of aggregates that can be detected visually or instrumentally in a microscope or through macroscopic observation or measurements without having to separate free from analyte bound particles. The method provides for useful apparatus and particle types for specific test kits can be constructed. These different test kits, and associated apparatus are useful for applications to consumer use, portable field use, point of care applications such as doctor's offices, clinics, emergency rooms and the like, research laboratories, and centralized high throughput testing.

Double Patenting

4. A rejection based on double patenting of the "same invention" type finds its support in the language of 35 U.S.C. 101 which states that "whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process ... may obtain a patent therefor ..." (Emphasis added). Thus, the term "same invention," in this context, means an invention drawn to identical subject matter. See Miller v. Eagle Mfg. Co., 151 U.S. 186 (1894); In re

Ockert, 245 F.2d 467, 114 USPQ 330 (CCPA 1957); and In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970).

A statutory type (35 U.S.C. 101) double patenting rejection can be overcome by canceling or amending the conflicting claims so they are no longer coextensive in scope. The filing of a terminal disclaimer cannot overcome a double patenting rejection based upon 35 U.S.C. 101.

5. Claim 188 is provisionally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 as claiming the same invention as that of claim 188 of copending Application No. 09/976968. This is a provisional double patenting rejection since the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.
